Activities Report by Christina Guilianti:

We are looking forward to Moroccan Night over the next two days! I have 600 people attending each night.

Our new art studio debuted last week. We have received great feedback from all classes (except 3D art). We have had Batik Scarf, Painting Classes, Succulent Terrariums, mixed media today and 3D art classes.

On Monday we had our Veterans Day breakfast. We had 291 attend of which 217 were Veterans.

Singles night started this past Monday night. We had 50 people in attendance (37 BW and 13 guests). Next one is on November 25th.

Our large interclub event is scheduled for Monday, December 16th.

We had our first member arts and crafts fair here last Thursday. We had 16 members display and sell their work and over 500 people walk through the event.

We are doing another Artisan Market with Vendors (not members) on Tuesday, December 3rd from 11PM-3PM.

Motown Night on December 3rd & 4th are both sold out. On Tuesday night we will be opening up Panache since there is no dinner service to accommodate all who wanted to attend the night. For December 4th, we have a wait list.

Next dinner show will be on January 6th with Tenor Anthony Kearns. We currently have 249 reservations and we have the whole ballroom for that event since it is on a Monday.

There was a typo in the Magazine for our February dinner show. The event is on TUESDAY, February 4th. (Not Thursday). That show is the Magic of Jerusalem. We have the entire ballroom for that event as well.

We had our first lecture for of the season last week with Robert Rabil on the Russian Mafia. We had 360 attend. Our next lecture is covering the white house and we have 351 signed up so far for that one. There was also a typo in the magazine for with a lecture. It states on March 4 we are having a jazz lecture. We are NOT. It was tentative, and then I did not book it due to its similarities with Tanglewood which is less than a month later.

We are now gearing up for the holiday week here and putting together the holiday brochure of all activities and events. This should be published shortly.
